Anaheim, California
March 18 & 19, 2006

Therapist Sculpting™

Jeffrey K. Zeig, Ph.D.
With Lilian Zeig, MA

*Presenter: Jeffrey K. Zeig, Ph.D.
Director, Milton H Erickson Foundation*

Co-presenter: Lilian Borges Zeig, MA

Lilian is director of the Milton Erickson Institute in Brazil. She is an invited teacher at the Milton Erickson Foundation for the training program they conduct three times a year. She is an experienced teacher and practitioner of hypnosis and brief therapy, and conducts seminars in the US and other countries including Spain, Mexico, France, Italy and Brazil.

Therapists Sculpting:

- Helps the therapist to empathize with the client;
- Helps the therapist to understand the client's phenomenological world;
- Helps the patient to realize and see what is important;
- Helps the client to disengage from problems; and
- Helps the client realize new possibilities.

This integrative approach to psychotherapy focuses on experiential technique of sculpting. The innovative technique of Therapists Sculpting™ integrates many approaches in psychotherapy including Ericksonian, family therapy, psychodrama, and gestalt. It is based on the idea that dynamic experiences precede dynamic understandings.

In this didactic and experiential workshop, you will learn how to use Therapist Sculpting™: in assessment and treatment of different problems; with individuals, families, couples and groups; in co-therapy; and as a supervision tool.

Based on his vast experience of more than 30 years of teaching, doing therapy and organizing the Evolution of Psychotherapy where he could integrate various approaches to psychotherapy, Dr. Zeig presents his experiential approach: By virtue of living different experiences the client will be different.

In this workshop the Zeigs will present and demonstrate this new therapy method that Dr. Zeig has been teaching worldwide.

Join us in this wonderful workshop that will make your therapy more effective and more fun.
